32	GEMC-511687774740318	22-09-2022	Fluid Control Research Institute, Palakkad, Kerala	Calibration of Turbine Flow meters, PD Flow meters and Accelerometer of Aggregate Overhaul Hangar in SED	NA	7.70	There are 32 Flow Meters and 02 Accelerometers in aggregates overhaul department. As per the Quality Control Instruction (QCI), periodicity of calibration of these units is two years. Flow meters are used to measure the rate of flow of ATF during testing of aggregates and accelerometers are used to measure velocity/acceleration of the vibrating platform used for testing of aggregates. These instruments are highly critical to ascertain performance parameters during various testing stages like adjustment and acceptance. In house facility is not available for carrying out the calibration of these instruments and hence these are being calibrated through external agency. Calibration of flow meters is to be done by NABL certified agencies. The medium used for calibration should have similar viscosity to find out the coefficient (K). M/s Fluid Control Research Institute (FCRI), Palakkad- Kerala under ministry of Heavy Industries, Govt. of India fulfils such requirements. Hence the work is proposed for execution through M/s Fluid Control Research Institute (FCRI), Palakkad- Kerala on nomination basis.	Single tender basis	AL31FP

These checks are done in medium with air/gas, kerosene and oil. Some of them having rotameter are used to monitor the joint condition/air-leakage during actual assembly of different modules like turbine-cooling control, air to air heat exchanger, ignition device so that no leakage/partial leakage can be ensured as per technological limit. Others are used to measure the flow-rate through nozzles of different oiljet/manifold and in case of not obtaining the same as per standard of technological specification are corrected accordingly with rework. Oil-flow ensures the proper lubrication and cooling of transmission and gear-box bearing in engine during exploitation which in turn affects the performance of aircraft. Improper lubrication may results in catastrophic failure of engine hence accurate consumption of oil from manifold at specified temperature and pressure can be ensured with calibrated flow-meter only. The equipments are critical in nature and periodic calibration is mandatory as per quality control procedure. The facility for Calibration is not available in Koraput. Considering criticality in nature and requirement of periodic calibration at trusted vender/source it proposed to carry out the calibration at FCRI,	Single tender basis	AL31FP
